

THE SLAUGHTERS OF CULPEPER

Compiled by Michael T. Slaughter (©1991)

This is a brief genealogy of the Slaughters who originated in England. In particular this is a compilation of the descendants of Robert Slaughter and Frances Anne Jones of St. Mark's Parish in Culpeper County, Virginia. The Slaughter family I am a part of originated in Bodelshausen, Wurttemberg in Germany. The ancestor of my family was Jacob Schlotterer. He came over to Philadelphia and lived in Germantown, Pennsylvania a short time before moving with his family to Granville County, North Carolina. Starting in the 1700s members of both families started migrating westward. Some, especially in the English family, migrated southward because of government land grants for military service.

I have put this together to aid me in sorting out the various Slaughters who migrated into Tennessee, Kentucky and other southern states. Since first names run in families, I can tell that some people belong in one family or another. For example, in the English family there are a lot of men named Robert and Francis. In the German family there are a lot of men named Jacob, Abraham, Isaac and Martin. Other names, such as William, John and Thomas, are common in both families. There are large numbers of both families in Tennessee and Kentucky.

The sources I have used are all very old, the most recent having been compiled about 1910. As is common in many old genealogies, there are not many dates given in these sources. I have included every date I could find and any other information I could find that would help identify people. The first genealogy of the Slaughters in Virginia was in "St. Mark's Parish" by Rev. Dr. Philip Slaughter written about 100 years ago. He said, "We limit our notice of the Slaughter family to two brothers, Robert and Francis, who were transplanted into St. Mark's Parish early in the eighteenth century, as it is not worth while to trace back to the stock from whence they sprang in England." I did most of this research almost 20 years ago [early 1970s] and did not record the sources that I photocopied information from. The first reference I used was an updated version of "St. Mark's Parish" which was included in a compendium of genealogies. The next source was "The Slaughters of Culpeper," which was a chapter in the book "Colonial Families of the Southern States of America." The third source I used was "Slaughter Family," which was a section in the book "Virginia Families."

There is one excellent source of material on Slaughters that I have not yet sifted through (except in search of my own relatives). In California in the late 1800s, an attorney named Henry Smith Slaughter did a lot of research on the Slaughter name. He researched all Slaughters because he did not know which ones were related to him and which were not. He mentions Jacob Slaughter of Granville County, North Carolina, who was my ancestor, but could find no evidence of a common origin between Jacob and the Slaughters of Virginia. The Henry Smith Slaughter papers fill a large box and are mostly old ledger books he used for his handwritten notes. They are kept at the Filson Club in Louisville, Kentucky, which is a privately funded history and genealogy library.
